To whom it may concern,

I confirm that Alcatel-Lucent Slovakia, a.s. contracted the company Lukromtel, s.r.o., Československej armády 198/31, 96701 Kremnica, Slovakia, as the subcontractor for the network drive test measurement services during the project of GSM swap for major Slovak mobile operator.

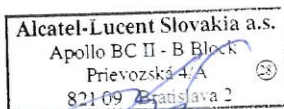

The supplier was selected through a standardized global tendering process (including an E-auction).

The services have been provided during the period of April 2011 – November 2012 and consisted in the GSM measurement data collection by driving routes and having a special drive test tool kit mounted in the car, based on the TEMS measurement chain.

On top of the initially agreed scope of work, the supplier was involved in a product validation campaign providing the E2E quality measurements based on the QVoice measurement chain.

At all times I have found them to provide reliable service of high level of quality, using an independent and creative approach when facing unusual situations, with good communication and high reactivity when answering to our specific requests. It demonstrates their strong technical skills and excellent human and material resources.
